Completed 2004

This project involved the renovation of the worship space in order to improve flexibility and connectedness between the choir and the chancel, update the building systems, and improve lighting and overall aesthetics.

The existing choir had been located high above the chancel and completely separated from the gathered, worshipping congregation. We lowered the choir and made the platform completely flexible, designed new furnishings, a new lighting system, and a polychromatic paint scheme that can be the foundation for future stenciling and decorative painting.

The decorative stone chancel floor has curved limestone treads and risers and a colorful pattern of three varieties of marble.
