Chapel for: Methodist Medical Center

Oak Ridge, Tennessee

Completed 1993

This non-denominational chapel is located in the lobby of a large hospital and was previously a gift shop with an aluminum storefront, 2x4 acoustical ceiling tiles, and fluorescent lighting. The chapel seats 24 with the lobby serving as overflow when the glass doors are open for larger services.

New Chapel - Exterior

We worked with the stained glass artist to provide a quiet, meditative chapel and designed the lighting so that the glass can be illuminated from either side to produce different effects. The individual pieces of glass range from transparent to translucent to reflective and vary in appearance with different variations in lighting.

The chapel furnishings are contrasting woods, maple and walnut; the chancel wall and floor are Italian cremo marble and filled Roman classic travertine, and the chairs and nave floor are limed oak.
